CHANGE CHARGE; MEN ARE FINED

Three Center Township Young Men, Arrested For Robbery, Plead Guilty to Intoxication.

OTHER CASE WAS DISMISSED
Believed That Evidence Was Not Sufficient to Get Convictions—Lee Allowed to Go Free.

Facts were submitted in the Henry circuit court at New Castle yesterday afternoon, which lead to the withdrawal of the charges of robbery against Bert and Loyd Shaffer, Loring and Linnie Duke, all of Center township, who were arrested by Sheriff Clara Bebout and his deputies at their homes Wednesday evening. But the charge of intoxication was preferred against the two Shaffers and Duke in the court yesterday afternoon, from the incident at Knightstown, when it is said that the young men were drunk. They pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined five dollars and costs. They were taken back to jail, when they failed to pay their fine, and it is said that their friends and relatives are making arrangements to stay or pay them. No charge of intoxication was made against Loring Lee and he was released from the five hundred dollar bond, on which he had been allowed to go free the day before.

The robbery charge was dismissed by the court on a motion of Prosecutor Evans, who believed that the evidence was not sufficient to get a conviction. The robbery was alleged to have occurred at Knightstown one week ago last Sunday night. The mother of Frank Gordon, who claims to be the one who suffered at the hands of the Rush county young men, filed the affidavit against them. He said that he was enticed to a deserted school house near Knightstown by the four men and there robbed, after they had beat him over the head and inflicted injuries so severe that the services of a physician were needed. It was the opinion of the prosecutor that the evidence could not be substantiated and for that reason the case was dropped.

Not much stock is taken in the story of Gordon, who is said to be a half-witted fellow and who does not stand very high in the community in which he lives. It is the belief of the authorities that, in order to explain to his mother for being bruised and beaten up in which condition he was found on the doorstep of his home the next morning and to account for the five dollars which he had in his possession when he left home that evening, Gordon concocted the robbery story.

It is claimed that the party of young fellows had been drinking at the deserted school house, which led to the charge of intoxication. The Rush county young men allege that the whiskey was furnished by Gordon, who had a quart in his possession and that they all imbibed freely. No intoxication charge was made against Loring Lee who said that he took Gordon home that night and cared for him.

ESCAPES SERIOUS HURT

James Hall Jumps and Avoids Being Hit in Head by Fork.

James Hall of Richland barely escaped being fatally injured or perhaps killed one day this week, when a pitch-fork was dropped from the top of a load of hay to the ground and struck him in the breast. Hall had gone back to repair the hay loader when the man on the top of the wagon dropped his fork to the ground. George Green, who was working near, called to Hall to jump, which he did and in that manner barely avoided being hit in the head by the fork. A prong of the fork pierced his breast and made a bad flesh wound.

HORSE SHOW TO BE BIG FEATURE

Secretary King Expects Van's Educated High School Equines to be Best Attraction.

AT COMING RUSH COUNTY FAIR

Board Predicts That Best Exhibition of Live Stock in Recent Years Will be Had.

Another week and the week of the annual Rush county fair, which brings joy to the hearts of many, will be here. The directors and officers of the fair board can not say enough in praise of this year's exhibition. They are unanimous in the opinion that it will be the best one which has been given in recent years. They are predicting the best races, the best free attractions, the best shows and the best cattle and horse shows in the history of the county.

The free attractions include the two balloonists who will give daily flights at the fair this year. The resourceful secretary, William King, has arranged for both of them to come, each ignorant of the other's contract. In this manner he plans that he can arrange a balloon race, which will be a new feature for the Rush county fair.

A long list of shows are contracted for, to come to the exhibition this year. The feature attraction of the lot is Van's educated high school horses, headed by Forest Tempest, who is recognized as one of the greatest equine trainers in the world. The secretary has recommendations from all of the fairs where the show has been and they are all very favorable. Mr. King believes that it will be one of the most popular attractions ever obtained.

The secretary of the fair was in Muncie last week attending the fair and got several concessions to promise to make this fair. They say that they are all headed around this way and will put Rushville on their circuit. Other members of the fair board were at Greensburg this week in the interests of the fair.

The board has contracted with B. F. Reynolds of Port Jennings, Ohio, president of the Ohio Expert Judges Association, to pass on all of the cattle, sheep and hog entries. The starter for the races has not yet been arranged for. The executive committee, which met in the court house this afternoon, expected to attend to that matter along with several other things of importance.

ASKS COURT SALE OF I & C COMPANY

Charles Henry, Receiver For Local Traction Line, Says Plans For Reorganization Fail.

HEARING SET FOR NEXT MONTH

Holders of Bonds Refuse to Accept the Proposed Agreement For Exchange of Shares.

Asking that a judicial sale of the property of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company be authorized, Charles L. Henry, receiver, yesterday, filed a report in Superior Court, Room 3, in which he sets forth the reason why such action is necessary, says the Indianapolis Star. In his report for May of this year, which was filed June 18, Mr. Henry asked for a judicial sale and Judge Carter instructed him to file a report before August 20, setting September 7 as the date for hearing.

In his report Mr. Henry states that the proposed plan for reorganizing the company has failed. On May 5, a committee composed of W. T. Durbin, John J. Appel, Claude Cambern, Theodore F. Rose and George A. Ball, representing the stockholders and bondholders, drew up an agreement whereby an exchange of receivership indebtedness would be made for bonds of a new issue, to be secured by a mortgage on the property of the company at face value and interest of the receivership indebtedness. The bonds were to be taken at 85 per cent of their face value.

"If the receivership creditors should unite in that agreement," says Mr. Henry, "then a full exchange of the receivership, indebtedness for the proposed new bonds could be made and it would not necessitate a judicial sale, but some of the holders of the receivership indebtedness as well as holders of the bonds have not joined in the agreement and have declined to do so." Mr. Henry concludes that in face of the existing conditions he recommends the authorization of a judicial sale to remove all of the company's indebtedness.

The request is made that the court decide the priority of lien between the company's bonds and the receivership certificates for, Mr. Henry sets out in his report, there is much discussion on this point, the holders of each asserting that they are entitled to first consideration in the settlement.

Under the head of "earnings and operating expense," it is shown that from January 1 to July 31, 1910, the gross earnings of the company were $248,066.23, which is an increase of 13.76 per cent over the earnings for the corresponding period in the previous year. The earnings of the Cincinnati division were $117,798.95, and of the Greensburg division, $130,267.28. The gross earnings of the company from January 1 to July 31, 1909, were $218,061.55, showing that the gain for this year was $30,004.68.

The bonded indebtedness of the company as shown by the report is the same as it was when the receivership was established July 3, 1906. At that time there was an indebtedness of $2,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds secured on mortgages on its line from Indianapolis to Connersville. All of the interest up to that time, with the exception of $24,700, had been paid. These figures remain the same. Interest on this money has accumulated and remained unpaid since January 1, 1906.

On the line of the Indianapolis & Southeastern Traction company, between Indianapolis and Greensburg, which the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company is operating under a lease, there was a bonded indebtedness of $1,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds when the receivership was established. This remains unpaid.

The floating indebtedness of the company presented in Mr. Henry's report, July 1, 1908, as being $76,032.51, remains the same and interest has accumulated. The receivership's indebtedness to July 31, 1910, is shown as being $1,120,340.39, this figure not including interest on amounts due the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company, attorneys' fees or allowances for trustee. Less judgments, including interest and costs from which appeals have been taken, which figure is given as $6,534.75, the total receivership's indebtedness is $1,113,805.64.

The entire amount of receivership coupons issued is shown as $927,973.26.

It is generally believed that the control of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company will not be affected by the proposed sale of the road. "If an order of sale is made by the court the dissenting holders of the receivership certificates and the company's bonds will be compelled to accept a statement that is no better than that extended them in the plan of agreement drawn up last May," said one of the stockholders last evening. "All that is involved in the petition and in the action which the court will take is in the elimination of the receivership. The plan proposed by the joint committee of stockholders and bondholders and the judicial sale are simply two different ways of arriving at the same point."

PREPARING TO GO TO CONVENTION

Kappa Alpha Phis of Local Chapter Will Wear Path to Indianapolis Wednesday.

OFFERS GOOD ENTERTAINMENT

On next Wednesday a path will be begun being beaten between this city and Indianapolis by the Kappa Alpha Phis of the local chapter on which day the twelfth annual convention of the organization will begin. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be devoted to business sessions and social "stunts." On Wednesday afternoon the members of the fraternity who are present will attend an American Association base ball game en masse. Wednesday evening the sororities of Indianapolis will hold a reception for the non-resident guests. Thursday night there will be a banquet at the Denison, and Friday night an informal dance. The members of the local chapter are Louis Mauzy, Scott Buell, Royce Cox, Ward Hackleman, Ben Humes, John Monjar, Max Wallace, Byron Cowing, Perry Oneal, Robert Humes, Walter Capp, Ernest Norris, Carl Gunning, Chase Monjar, Ed Perry, Weldon Brann, Edwin Watson, Cleo Emsweller and John Frazee.

PENNSYLVANIA WINS SUIT

Gets Ruling Limiting Double Tracking Damages to One Property.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company was yesterday afternoon successful in its suit against residents of Knightstown, and by order of Judge Jackson of the Henry circuit court, a portion of Adams street in that town will be vacated in order to facilitate the company's double track work through the southern part of the county. Property owners on the street were opposing the vacation of that section of the street lying south of the railroad and demanding damages. Judge Jackson held that only property owners whose property adjoined the railroad could recover damages, and under this ruling there is but one property owner who can recover damages.

HAVE YOU DESIRE FOR A COLISEUM?

Four Practical Means of Getting One Have Been Thought Out—Will You Aid?

CHAUTAQUA CAN ALSO AID

Rushville is Badly in Need of a Place to Hold Conventions and Public Meetings.

Today Rushville and Rush county people find themselves in need of a structure in which to hold meetings of any character or kind. Next presidential year Republicans and Democrats alike will be faced by the very difficult and perplexing problem of a place to hold their nominating assemblies. For the lack of such a building a congressional convention would be an impossibility for Rushville, unless a church was polluted or an airdome used. The Rushville high school has been forced to decline the State high school oratorical contest, which is held annually in May, on account of this want. We have a need and every need should be remedied, and we believe this need has not only a theoretical but practical remedy if thirty minutes of true labor would be given by fifty men of this city in bringing what is now a dream into a realization.

The chautauqua germ has become an annual contagious germ—or at least that is the opinion of the general public at present. That organization is to be the leading character in realizing the dream. The vision is to be either a tragedy or a history in four acts—depending on failure or success.

In this city there are at least 100 public spirited men, who are aware of this peculiar lacking in a city the size of Rushville, who would donate $2,500 to a coliseum to be constructed in the city park. That amount would mean on the average of $25 to each man. With some little labor this act could be made history rather than a tragedy.

It is a custom in all cities where places of public interest are opened to have what is known as an opening night. The program committee of next year's chautauqua could obtain an excellent list of talent for the first night and sell season tickets good for the opening performance at a fifty cent or a dollar increase on the price of the season tickets, which would be good for all but the opening number of the chautauqua. The general admission for that night only could be "boosted." The most advantageous seats in the coliseum could be auctioned off to bidders, as is the custom at a great many public spirited meetings and functions. Thus another act of this peculiar dream.

"Rush county is blessed with talent," as Lincoln McConnell said. Those who have been blessed with ability could show their gratitude and their local patriotism and pride by giving their talent ad gratis on what would be known as Rush county day of the Eighth Annual Chautauqua, but let it be understood that the entire gate receipts of the day were to be given toward the coliseum and not one cent of it to be appropriated for the regular expenses of the annual event. A lecture from James E. Watson, one of his chautauqua lectures, would be well accepted if Republican, Democrat, Prohibitionist, and Socialist alike would forget everything of Mr. Watson excepting the fact that he is a wonderful orator, a fact that can not be successfully denied. Hon. Frank J. Hall also offers excellent talent; as a whistler there are few, if any, who can excel Mrs. Panthea Smiley; as a reader Jesse Pugh, who will Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

TAGGART'S MEGAPHONE

Indiana Democrats Get the Word in No Uncertain Tones.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—When Thomas Taggart desires to speak his mind to his followers in Marion county and throughout the state, he uses his string of campaign weeklies, headed by George Ray's Indianapolis Herald and Editor Isherwood's Tippecanoe County Democrat, at Lafayette, and a few similar sheets of uncertain purpose and caliber. These papers have spoken for Mr. Taggart in no uncertain tones on the matter of upholding all the planks in the Democratic state platform of 1910. Editor George Ray minces no words in the matter. He goes right to the heart of the subject and calls sharply to account the Democrats of several rural counties who have openly tried to bolt their platform. Editor Ray speaks the inevitable Taggart logic of the situation. He says:

"When the Democrats elect their state ticket and secure control of the legislature, we do not want to hear any Democrat begin to hedge on the state platform."

Pretty plain talk that. And it is official, too. For Tom Taggart is the financial agent of Editor Ray's weekly paper, and that paper is no more than a Taggart megaphone. The above statement indicates clearly Mr. Taggart's view of the revolt in Boone, Wells, Johnson, Clinton and other counties. Here's what Editor Ray says further on Mr. Taggart's behalf:

"If we secure the legislature the option law should be repealed at once."

More plain talk, eh? Mr. Taggart means business, if Editor Ray's tone indicates anything at all. Pretty middling bossy chat for the rural Democrats to hear at this time, is it not? What have they got to say to it?

Solemn warning is dishied out to John W. Kern in the same Ray editorial. Governor Marshall is yanked onto the Taggart carpet to hear what he is to do for the bosses. Here's the mandate from Taggart in Ray's paper:

"Governor Marshall, John W. Kern and every candidate on the state ticket should join hands on the redemption of the platform at the hands of the legislature."

Mr. Kern, in plain terms, must assist Taggart, Crawford Fairbanks and the other bosses in working their will on the people of Indiana, or Mr. Kern can whistle for that senatorship, no matter what Democratic majority finds its way to caucus. The Taggart threat is plain.

Governor Marshall must work with the Democratic bosses and for the destruction of existing temperance laws or be forgotten when it comes time for making up the Indiana delegation to the national Democratic convention of 1912. Mr. Taggart already has demonstrated what he can do with the Marshall presidential boom. So his dictum today is that Governor Marshall must play for and with the bosses or drop out of sight politically.

Editor Ray praises Governor Marshall because, as he says, "Governor Marshall took a bat at option in his state convention speech," and goes on to suggest that it is up to the governor to go to bat again when the legislature convenes next winter. It is plain to see what the Democratic bosses in Indiana have written down as the bounden duty of their candidates. The bosses have one thing in mind and one alone. They demand that the people shall give up their right to manage their own affairs locally. The Democratic bosses desire to do the managing of the people's affairs, in the bosses' own peculiar way. They have the nerve to command men like Marshall and Kern to take off their coats and help deprive the people of their local self-government.

There is nothing quite so nervy and selfish as a political boss of the Taggart stripe in his time of success. It would be difficult to explain how Governor Marshall could hope to strengthen himself by adding Crawford Fairbanks's schemes. Yet there is the cold demand for help. It is not easy to believe John W. Kern would stultify himself and reverse himself in favor of the selfish bosses. But he is between the bosses and the deep abyss. Indiana Democrats have need of a Bryan to lead them in defiance of boss control. Mr. Kern is too weak in the knees, apparently, though he seems to be a man of decent purposes. Governor Marshall either is too indolent or he lacks courage to breast the weapons of the special interests. There is no other leader at hand, so far as Indiana Democrats can see.

Of Mr. Bryan and his position on bossism by special interests, Editor Ray, speaking for Thomas Taggart, cheerfully remarks:

"Now that we have Mr. Bryan's personal word as to his intentions when he comes to Indiana in this campaign, we are glad he is to be with us and that he will take part in the contest in this state. We trust no one now supporting the Democratic state platform will be alarmed over the coming of Mr. Bryan. Let the word go out that Mr. Bryan is 'right.'"

The campaign conducted by the Italian authorities against the cholera has been successful and the epidemic is now stationary in the whole of the affected area except Trani, where it is of a virulent character.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Woman's Ailments.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my book, WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER, with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—yes, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or White Discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Uterus, Pains, Scarcity or Painful Periods, Sterility or Barrenness, or Scarcity of Milk, Head, Back and Neuralgic, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weakness, dizziness, and bladder troubles, where caused by weaknesses peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment, entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Stickness and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in young Ladies, Plumpness and health always results from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases, and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again.

PRESIDENT TAFT LENDING HIS AID

Sends Letter to Governor of Minnesota, Expressing His Interest in Conservation Congress.

SEPTEMBER 5 IS THE BIG DAY

When President and Governors All Over United States Will Gather at St. Paul.

Saint Paul, Minn., Aug. 20.—President Taft's interest in the second National Conservation Congress to be held in St. Paul, September 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9, is shown in a letter to Governor Eberhart of Minnesota.

The letter from the president which follows, is used as the basis of letters to the governors who have excused for not attending the congress, urging them to reconsider the matter and come to St. Paul:

Beverly, Mass., August 6.

"Hon. A. O. Eberhart,

"Governor of Minnesota, St. Paul.

"Dear Governor—I acknowledge your letter of the 2d, written from Boston, in which you request me to issue an invitation to the governors of all the States to visit the Conservation Congress. I feel that I ought not to issue such an invitation since that matter is entirely in the hands of Mr. Baker, Mr. White and yourself, and should remain there; but I am glad to say to you that it is my sincere hope that the governors of the various States, by their attendance at the Congress, will express the interest which I know they all feel in securing a full and valuable discussion of this great problem, which so much interests every American.

WILLIAM H. TAFT."

It is believed in St. Paul that this letter from the President will be the means of bringing more governors to the congress than otherwise would have attended. It is recognized here that the time is not really the best for some of the governors. There are hot campaigns in some of the States and several of the governors are candidates for re-election. However the President's letter is expected to show just where he stands on the conservation question and since he has agreed to come himself and urges the governors to do the same, there no doubt will be a larger attendance of State executives than has been expected.

Monday, September 5, is to be President's and Governors' Day at the congress, and former President Roosevelt has expressed the wish that it will be the big day. The address of the President at the meeting of the governors are the only things on the program for that day. The governors will talk on any phase of the conservation congress that suits them and the States they represent and much of value is expected to come from these speeches.

New Novel by an Indiana Author

"The Caverns of Dawn," by James Paxton Voorhees of Greencastle, Ind., is a new novel just issued by the Raidabaugh-Voorhees Co., of Plainfield, Ind.

The author is the son of the late Daniel W. Voorhees, one of the greatest public characters in the past half century. As private secretary to his father in the United States Senate, he was permitted an insight into the social and political life of the capital city.

"Caverns of Dawn," the author has given us a story of intense human interest. The scene of the opening chapters is Washington, D. C., but it soon shifts to southern Indiana where the intricate plot of the story is developed, involving a notorious and closely organized band of outlaws.

The pictures of Washington life with its reigning selfishness, its corruption, its too frequent indifference to the pleadings of the poor, its heart aches of disappointment and poverty, and its gilded sin are all cleverly and impressively drawn. And when the scene shifts to more lowly surroundings in southern Indiana in the region of Lost River and the mysterious caves the author paints his picture with a loving touch. His nature pictures are exceptionally clear and true, sympathetically traced. Some are really prose poems and one is inclined to resent the fact that there are not many more. The dialogue is clever and the humor good—the rather crude David Harumque humor that smacks of the soil. The plot is elaborate but well carried out, and one follows the unraveling with keen interest.

The book is a handsome volume of 520 pages, is printed on egg shell paper, bound in old rose cloth and stamped in gold, and is sold by dealers everywhere.

An Economy fruit jar demonstration is now going on at L. L. Allen's. Call and see this wonderful jar and have the demonstrator explain it to you. 116tf

Million Bullets a Minute

A working model of an automatic machine gun, which, it is said, will discharge bullets over a range of a mile or more at the rate of 1,000,000 a minute, with a muzzle velocity of more than 3,000 feet a second, and operated by a secret mechanical power, was demonstrated recently by the inventor, Frederick B. Bangerter, says the New York Herald.

The model, which was built to shoot a three eighths inch bullet, was mounted behind a partition in the factory at No. 79 Broad street Stapleton, S. I. All the motive parts were covered by a tarpaulin and the machine was run by an electric motor, connected with the gun by a belt. The muzzle was pointed through a hole in a partition and the observers having gathered behind a screen, the motor was started.

The target, a pine board about half an inch thick, was placed 50 feet away. As the motor began to hum the operator turned a little wheel and the steady stream of bullets poured from the muzzle of the gun, like a stream of water from a hose. The target seemed to melt before the eyes as a hail of missiles struck it, and in about ten seconds the entire center of the board had disappeared.

The principal use of the new gun, according to the inventor's claims, will be for operating against airships, and as there is no recoil he says the gun can be pointed toward any point of the compass.

Mr. Bangerter is a native of Switzerland and was born and educated at Berne. He served in the Swiss army and was for some time in the ordnance department of the government.

Tirade Against Buzz wagon

Envy, because the writer is an editor and therefore unable to buy a machine, is thought to have called forth the following tirade against the mild mannered and useful automobile, in the Woman's Journal:

"Look not upon the buzz cart when it is red and giveth stinkum to the evening breezes; for it chaweth seeds and ducats like a hay baler; also mazuma and sesterces, and rocks and dough it lappeth up like a house afire. When the devil wagon champeth and snorteth, flee to the mountains of the Hepsidam and crawl in a hole; or the old boy will get you and carry you to the poor house. Man goeth forth in the morning ehugging and shaking with pride; a halo of blue smoke circlet him as a wreath; he patteth his belly with pride and saith, behold, I am a six-cylinder brute; even lallapaloo-lu am I in my pride. When lo, the sheriff campeth on the front door of the shop and wipeth up his substance in a night and a Missouri mule hauleth off the available assets to the auction. The auto is a mocker and the touring car is raging, and who is deceived thereby shall soak his noodle in lye. Vessels of wrath fitted unto destruction are the devil carts that eat man's time and sap his securities and in the end turn over in a ditch and make his family into Hamburger steaks."

Acute or Chronic — Which?

No matter if your kidney trouble is acute or chronic Foley's Kidney Remedy will reach your case. Mr. Claude Brown, Reynoldsville, Ill., writes us that he suffered many months with kidney complaint which baffled all treatment. At last he tried Foley's Kidney Remedy and a few large bottles effected a complete cure. He says, "It has been of inestimable value to me."

To keep your health sound; to avoid the ills of advancing years; to conserve your physical forces for a ripe and healthful old age, guard your kidneys by taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. F. B. Johnson & Co.

James L. Keach does not appear to agree with Democratic leaders in Indiana that the present prices of commodities ought to be made an issue in politics. Mr. Keach is a Democrat. But he thinks for himself, and he refuses to conform his own ideas to the demands of his party committee. He holds that the modern standard of living makes luxuries out of common products by anticipating the seasons. People buy peaches out of season; to people buy peaches out of season; matos before the home grown tomato appears, and all other products in a similar way, thus forcing prices upward by the logic of sheer demand. There is no doubt, as the Lafayette Journal says, that "Mr. Keach has pointed out a change in the popular demand."

John B. Stoll, editor of the South Bend Times, and one of the wisest Democrats in Indiana, is trying in a good natured way, to minimize the disastrous effects of the John W. Kern interview which charged bribery against fellow-Democrats.

Mr. Stoll says: "What's the use of making a fuss over the indiscreet utterance of Mr. Kern that eight of his supporters had been stolen away from him. There is nothing in that and it is paying the intelligent voters of Indiana a mighty poor compliment in trying to make a slip of the tongue or a misconception of an occurrence an 'issue' in an important campaign. Let us get at bigger things, at real issues, matters in which the people are vitally interested. Peanut politics is not in very high favor just now."

There may be "bigger things" than John W. Kern. That is not for us to say. The size of Mr. Kern is a matter he is to prove for himself. There may be issues more real than the issue of corruption which Mr. Kern raised when he besmirched Senator Shively and libeled the Democratic legislative caucus. But in Illinois, and in some other States, the people look on bribery and the thwarting of the will of the rank and file as a real and big issue.

There is not much encouragement for honesty, reform and decency when such men as John B. Stoll "pooh-pooh" such men as John Kern, and such serious charges as Mr. Kern made against the betrayal caucus of 1909.

 EDITORIALETTES.

Some people burst into verse, others into song and still others, there are, who swell up and "bust."

New Castle Courier says that about everybody down at Rushville is sitting on the curb and watching them pave the streets. Sorry to spoil that joke, ole head, but the curbing has been removed.

And besides it does not pay to think that you are so well fortified that the foundation can not be knocked out. Rome fell once.

And again it does not pay to get too ambitious, either. Caesar was ambitious.

Perhaps there may be some use for the "hobble" skirt, even though critics have made some rather scathing denunciations of it. It might be used to keep the "fast" woman from "breaking" into society.

They say that 94 in the shade in Rushville makes business for the hotel keepers at Petoskey, Mich.

It is said that one of Rushville's bachelors is about to prove that he can "come back."

Very fortunate that the weather man has a good disposition for he has to stand more kicks than anyone. Now we would like to have a little rain, please.

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand Airdome offers a Vitagraph tonight entitled "Hako's Sacrifice." It is one of those remarkable Japanese dramas in which he that sacrifices is blessed in the giving. An unmistakable heart theme that is bound to reach the heart and hold the interest and attention till the finish of the picture. Earl Robertson will sing "That Italian Rag."

The Palace management has a good program to offer tonight in the film, "Peg Woffington," taken from Charles Reed's novel by the same name. The picture tells the story which the English novelist concocted in a very realistic manner. "Peg" is one of the greatest actors which England ever gave to the stage and incidents in her life, all of her love affairs and her triumphs are depicted with clearness. The picture deals with one particular romance of the great actress with a married man and how, when she discovers that her suitor has a wife, she cleverly arranges a reconciliation between the pair. The green room of the old English theater is shown with wonderful clearness. A new illustrated song will be sung.

"A Reno Romance" is the title of the Imp film which will be shown at the Vaudeville theater tonight. Made famous the world over for its convenient divorce laws, the city of Reno, Nevada, is really a haven for married folks who have experienced a change of heart. But it has never been known to be the seat of the reconciliation of divorced couples. That is the story which the subject depicts, true to human life and full of pathetic intensity. A new illustrated song is on the program.

ELECT ONLY ONE NEW DIRECTOR

Eight Officials Are Re-elected at the Reorganization Meeting of Chautauqua Association.

GOOD CROWD IN ATTENDANCE

About forty business and professional men were out for the reorganization meeting of the chautauqua association in the court house last night. All of the old directors were elected with one exception. Several phases of the annual assembly were discussed and all were unanimous in the assertion that the one which just closed was the most successful one in the history of the chautauqua in Rush county. The directors will meet later and elect the officers of the association from their number. Earl H. Payne was elected a director to take John B. Winship's place. The other directors who were re-elected are: Dr. C. H. Parsons, Lincoln Giffin, Will M. Bliss, F. E. Wolcott, T. M. Green, J. H. Scholl, Raymond C. Hargrove and T. A. Craig.

UNEARTHED SKELETON.

(Indianapolis Star.)
 The skeleton of an Indian has been unearthed by workmen excavating in a gravel pit on the farm of Uriah Bortsch near Cambridge City, supposed to be that of a female about five feet in height. The teeth show that the remains were those of a person 75 years old, probably buried several hundred years ago. The skeleton was buried with the head down and was in an excellent state of preservation.

That a tribe of mound builders once occupied the farm is evident from the fact that other fine specimens of the prehistoric days have been discovered in this vicinity.

PLANS AHEAD FOR THE SPEEDWAY

Promoters Are Arranging For Several Race Attractions to be Had in Coming Year.

MONORAIL MOTOR MAY COME

Are Bidding For National Military Maneuvers to be Held in 1911— is Ideal Place.

Indianapolis Motor Speedway is bidding for the National Military maneuvers for 1911. The Motor Speedway forms an ideal grounds for this purpose and an active campaign will be inaugurated to secure this event.

Over two thousand troops will take part in the various contests of skill that will form the program, while the events last for ten days. One of the features of the affair is the fact that the events are open to the public free of charge in regard to gate admission, while the only charge made to witness the events will be for the grand stand seats.

The various trade and merchants' associations of Indianapolis; also the clubs have been asked to co-operate with the Speedway in securing this great attraction which it is planned to have take place between the dates of July 5 and 15, 1911.

Infantry, cavalry and artillery will take part in the maneuvers, while the Speedway park, with its carpet of green as smooth as a billiard table, covering over three hundred acres inside of the brown surface of the track will be an ideal ground.

The Indianapolis Motor Speedway management are preparing their list of 1911 events early. A bid was filed for the Glidden tour before it was given to Cincinnati, and the Capital city just missed the event which also was promised to Indianapolis for 1911, while a card of motor dates superior to the 1910 card is being arranged.

The Speedway management have also submitted a bid for the 1911 National championships and on account of the importance of this meet this year it looks like a certainty over the vitrified course.

While preparing for the events of 1910 the future is not being neglected. So that the limelight that has blazed so brilliantly on Indianapolis for the past two seasons in things pertaining to motor cars and air crafts, will be even brighter next year if the numerous plans of the progressive owners is carried out as indications now are that they will be.

Carl G. Fisher is now planning on securing the Brennan Monorail Motor and a train of gyroscopic cars for an exhibition in 1911 as part of a great outdoor motor car show.

This is but one of the many features that Mr. Fisher hopes to have at the Motor Speedway during the season of 1911. Many of his plans will be given no publicity until they become realities and then various of the other large cities which are not provided with Speedways will realize just what they are missing by lacking facilities.

Peat will be the only fuel used in a great German electric power generating station.

CHAPTER XV.

From the Devil to the Deep Sea. "How shall we go?" asked Orme, as they descended to the street level.

"By train. There is no other convenient way, since my car is at home." She looked at him doubtfully, and added, "but they will be watching the railroad stations."

He nodded. "A motor would be safer—if we can get one." He gave her hand a secret pressure while the elevator boy was opening the door for them, and as she passed before him she flashed upon him a look so filled with love and trust that the sudden thrill of his happiness almost stifled him.

At the La Salle street entrance Orme had a fleeting glimpse of the watching Alcatrante. The South American, after one astonished stare, darted away in the dusk. He would follow them, of course, but Orme decided to say nothing about him to the girl.

"I must telephone," she said suddenly, stopping as if to turn back to the building. "Father will be very anxious."

"The booths in the building must be closed," he said. "We'd better try a drug store."

Accordingly they made their way to the nearest, and the girl went to the booth. The door was shut for a long time.

While he was waiting, Orme glanced through the brilliant window. In the light of an electric lamp across the street he discerned faintly a motionless figure; without hesitation he crossed the pavement, recognizing Alcatrante more clearly as he left the dazzle of the store.

The minister did not budge. His face, as Orme approached, was cold and expressionless.

"Senior," exclaimed Orme, "does your trade include murder?"

"Not at all. Why do you ask, Mr. Orme?"

"Because only a lucky intervention has saved you from the murder of a young lady and myself."

"You are exaggerating, my dear sir," Alcatrante laughed.

"Is it your custom to lock people into air-tight chambers?"

"Air-tight?" Alcatrante was clearly disconcerted. "I did not suppose that it was air-tight. Also, I did not dream that the young lady was there. But this game is a serious game, Mr. Orme. You do not appear to understand. When one is working for his country, many strange things are justified."

"Even murder?"

"Even murder—sometimes."

Orme had an inspiration. "Thank you for the truth, senior," he said. "I, too, am working for my country. If you continue to follow us, I shall assume that you have murder in your mind, and I shall act accordingly."

Alcatrante smiled coolly.

He glanced to the drug store and saw the girl coming out of the telephone booth. Hastening across the street, he met her at the door.

"If father had had any idea of such complications when we came west," she said, "there would have been plenty of men near by to help us. As it is, we shall have to act alone. It is not a matter for detectives—or for the police. I—I almost wish it were," she faltered.

Orme wondered again whether this father could have realized what dangers the girl was encountering. But, as if divining his sudden anger against the man who could let his daughter run such risks, she added: "He doesn't know, of course, the details of our adventures. I have permitted him to think that it is simply a matter of searching."

"And now he is reassured?"

"Yes. Oh, you have no idea yet how important it is."

"You were a long time in the booth," he said.

A mysterious smile flitted across her face. "I thought of another person I wished to talk to. That person was hard to get."

"Long distance?"

"It proved necessary to use long distance."

Then she caught a glimpse of the figure across the street. "There's Mr. Alcatrante," she exclaimed.

"Yes, I have just had a talk with him."

Her face showed concern.

"Don't let him worry you, dear," he added. "He will try to talk us. We must expect that. But I think I can take care of him."

"I believe it," she said, softly.

He wondered whether she could guess how relentlessly he was planning to deal with Alcatrante. Would she justify the course he had in mind? As to her attitude, he felt doubtful. Perhaps she did not agree with the South American that murder was sometimes necessary in the service of one's country.

Moreover, while Alcatrante was undoubtedly serving the interest of his country, Orme had no real certainty that he himself was in a similar position. He had every reason to infer that the papers were of importance to the United States government, but after all he could only go by inference. The affairs of some private corporation in the United States might have a serious bearing on problems in South America and the far east. He decided to sound the girl for information that would be more definite.

But first the question as to their next move must be answered.

"Do you know where we can get a motor?" he said.

"No"—she prolonged the word doubtfully. "We may have to take a motor cab."

"It would be safer than the railroad or the electric line." Then he asked with great seriousness: "Girl, dear, I don't know much about the meaning and value of these papers in my pocket, and I don't care to know any more than you choose to tell me. But let me know just this much: Are they as important to you as they are to our enemies? Have you really been justified in the risks you have run?"

"You have seen how far Alcatrante and the Japanese have been willing to go," she replied, gravely. "I am sure that they would not hesitate to kill us, if it seemed necessary to them in their effort to get possession of the papers. Now, my dear, they are even much more important to my father."

"In his business interests?"

"Much more than that."

They were walking along the glimmering canyon of La Salle street, which was now almost deserted in the dusk. A motor car swept slowly around the corner ahead and came toward them. It had but one occupant, a chauffeur, apparently. He wore a dust-coat, a cap, and goggles which seemed to be too large for him.

Regardless of Alcatrante, who was following them, Orme hailed the chauffeur. "Will you take a fare?" he called.

The man stopped his car and, after a moment of what Orme interpreted as indecision, nodded slowly.

"How much by the hour?" asked Orme.

The chauffeur held up the ten fingers of his two hands.

Orme looked at the girl. He hadn't that much money with him.

"If I only had time to cash a check," he said.

"All right," she whispered. "I have plenty."

They got into the tonneau, and the girl, leaning forward, said: "Take the Lake Shore drive and Sheridan road to Evanston."

Again the chauffeur nodded, without turning toward them.

"He doesn't waste many words," whispered the girl to Orme.

While the car was turning Orme noted that Alcatrante had stopped short and was watching them. It was some reason for surprise that he was not hunting for a motor in which to follow.

Perhaps his plans were so completely balked that he was giving up altogether. No, that would not be like Alcatrante. Orme now realized that in all likelihood the minister had foreseen some such circumstance and had made plans accordingly.

He was more and more inclined to believe that Alcatrante had but half expected to keep him long imprisoned in Wallingham's office. Then what had been the purpose underlying the trick? Probably the intention was to make Orme prisoner for as long a period as possible and, in any event, to gain time enough to communicate with Portol and the Japanese and whatever other persons might be helping in the struggle to regain the papers. The probabilities were that Alcatrante had been using the last two hours to get in touch with his friends.

HERE IS A REMEDY THAT WILL CURE ECZEMA

"WE PROVE IT"

Why waste time and money experimenting with greasy salves and lotions, trying to drive the eczema germ from underneath the skin when the F. E. Wolcott Drug Store guarantees ZEMO, a clean liquid preparation for external use to rid the skin of the germ life that causes the trouble? One application will relieve the itching and often times one bottle is sufficient to cure a minor case of eczema.

In over 200 towns and cities in America, the leading druggist has the agency for ZEMO and he will tell you of the marvelous cures made by this clean, simple treatment. ZEMO is recognized as the cleanest and most popular treatment for eczema, pimples, dandruff and all other forms of skin or scalp affections whether on infant or grown person. Will you try a bottle on our recommendation? F. E. Wolcott's Drug Store.

Stagers Skeptics.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklin's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or piles staggers skeptics. But great cures prove its a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c. at F. B. Johnson & Co.

And now those friends would be informed promptly that Orme and the girl were setting out by motor. This analysis apparently accounted for Alcatrante's nonchalance. Orme and the girl seemed to be escaping, but in truth, if they approached their destination at all, they must run into the ambush of other enemies. Then the nearer the goal, the greater the danger.

As the motor slid smoothly northward on La Salle street, Orme looked back. Alcatrante had made no move. The last glimpse that Orme had of him showed that slight but sinister figure alone on the sidewalk of the deserted business street.

They crossed the Clark street bridge. "Keep on out North Clark street until you can cross over to Lincoln park," said Orme to the chauffeur.

The only indication that the order had been heard was a bending forward of the bowed figure on the front seat.

Orme explained to the girl. "It will be better not to take the Lake Shore drive. They may be watching the Pere Marquette."

"You are right," she said. "As a precaution, we'd better not pass the hotel."

"How surprised I was to find you waiting for me there last evening," mused Orme—"and how glad!"

"I never called on a man before," she laughed.

"I had made up my mind only a little while before," he continued, "to stay in Chicago till I found you."

"I'm afraid that would not have been easy." She returned the pressure of his hand, which had found hers. "If it hadn't been for those papers, we might never have met."

"We were bound to meet—you and I," he said. "I have been waiting all my life just for you."

"But even now you don't know who I am. I may be a political adventurer—or a woman detective—or—"

"You may be," he said, "but you are the woman I love. Your name—your business, if you have one—those things don't matter. I know you, and I love you."

She leaned closer to him. "Dear," she whispered impulsively, "I am going to tell you everything—who I am, and about the papers—"

"Wait!" He held his hand before her mouth. "Don't tell me now. Do as you planned to do. Be simply 'Girl' to me for a while longer."

She moved closer to him. Their errand, the danger, were for the time forgotten, and the motor hummed along with a burden of happiness.

"You haven't looked at the papers yet," said Orme, after a time. They were turning east toward Lincoln park.

"Do I need to?"

"Perhaps not. I took them from the envelope which you saw at Arima's. But here they are. I did not look at them, of course."

He drew the parchments from within his coat and placed them in her hand.

While she examined them, he looked straight ahead, that he might not see. He could hear them crackle as she unfolded them—could hear her sigh of content.

And then something occurred that disquieted him to a degree which seemed unwarranted. The chauffeur suddenly turned around and glanced swiftly through his goggles at the girl and the papers. The action was, perhaps, natural; but there was an assured expectancy in the way he turned—Orme did not like it. Moreover, there was something alarmingly familiar in the manner of the movement.

Somewhere Orme had seen a man move his body like that. But before his suspicions could take form, the chauffeur had turned again.

The girl handed the papers back to Orme. "These are the right papers," she said. "Oh, my dear, if you only knew how much they mean."

He held them for a moment in his hand. Then, after returning them to his pocket with as little noise as possible, he caught the girl's eye and, with a significant glance toward the chauffeur, said in a distinct voice:

"I will slip them under the seat cushion. They will be safer there."

Did the chauffeur lean farther back, as if to hear better? or was the slight movement a false record of Orme's imagination?

DOCTORS FAIL IN THEIR DUTY

County Health Officers Not Doing Their Proper Part.

TO COMBAT THE WHITE PLAGUE

Indiana State Board of Health Finds It Impossible to Secure Necessary Reports Required by Law Regarding Mortality From Tuberculosis, and Physicians Are Being Urged to Give the Matter Their Attention.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20.—Quarterly reports received by the state board of health from county health commissioners for the period ending June 30, indicate that either tuberculosis has been virtually stamped out in the state or the physicians have not thought it worth while to report cases. Since the state board has positive knowledge that the disease has not been materially lessened in extent, it is forced to the belief that the physicians are at fault. Reports from county after county fail to show any record of cases of tuberculosis, although a large number of deaths from the disease are reported.

Under a vigorous effort now under way to make the state reports more accurate, the physicians are being urged to report every case of tuberculosis discovered by them, whatever the stage of the disease. Under the law, physicians are required to report the disease when discovered.

Notices are being mailed to physicians calling attention to the fact that they are required to report all such cases. Only fourteen cases were reported in this city during July, while there were forty-eight deaths during the month from the disease. In 1909 there were 332 deaths from the disease, but only 140 cases were reported. Attention is called to the fact that it is impossible to keep accurate records unless the physicians make reports as contemplated by law.

SEEKING A COMPROMISE

Miners' Convention May Bring Its Sessions to a Close Today.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20.—Failure of the special committee of the miners' convention to report on the matters submitted to it in respect to the Illinois trouble and the raising of money to carry on the strike caused the special convention to adjourn after a brief session yesterday, but it is thought that its work may be concluded late today. The committee has been wrangling over the Illinois strike for two days, but it is reported that an agreement on a policy is near. If the committee does not endorse the Illinois strike there will be a protest against receiving the report, and if it does there will be a move for its rejection. It is thought some compromise may be adopted and that both sides to the trouble will acquiesce in it for the sake of harmony. A report submitted by the transportation committee showed that the cost of bringing the delegates here and sending them home is $10,032, there being 1,151 delegates in attendance.

President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners has expressed the belief that the conference with officers of the American Federation of Labor would result in a closer affiliation of the two bodies.

AERONAUT KILLED

Captain Jack Cassell's Balloon Burst While He Was High in the Air.

Mount Vernon, Ind., Aug. 20.—Capt. Jack Cassell, a Louisville, Ky., aeronaut is dead at an Evansville sanatorium of injuries received while making an ascension at the fair grounds here. The balloon burst while he was 200 feet in the air and he fell. Both legs and his right arm were broken and he received internal injuries.

The accident occurred within a short distance of the amphitheater and caused a panic among the spectators. Cassell had made more than 1,000 ascensions. His wife was in Laporte when the accident occurred.

Two Negroes Held.

Spencer, Ind., Aug. 20.—In a scuffle with two negroes Leslie Beaumont, a stone cutter of this city, was shot in the head and fatally wounded. Two colored men belonging to a circus and known as Peg Leg and Blue Shirt, were arrested and are held pending an investigation.

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garage for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

RAILWAY GRAFT SCANDAL GROWS

Further Arrests In the Illinois Central Case.

WHOLE LID NOW TO COME OFF

Officials of the Road Declare They Will Get the Last Man in the Conspiracy—With the Arrest of Frank B. Harriman, Formerly General Manager of the Road, It Is Said There Will Be Hosts of Other Arrests.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The Illinois Central railway graft scandal storm broke with tempestuous fury when Frank B. Harriman, formerly general manager of the Illinois Central lines, was arrested, as was also simultaneously Charles L. Ewing, formerly general superintendent of the road north of the Ohio river. They were taken into custody by Sergeant William Reid and Detective W. J. Burns of the Burns & Sheridan detective agency, who had personal charge of working up the evidence against the alleged Illinois Central grafters. The arrests were made on warrants issued by Judge Bruggmeyer of the Harrison street court. There also were warrants taken out for John M. Taylor, formerly general storekeeper of the Illinois Central shops at Burnside. The men are charged in the writs with conspiracy to cheat and defraud the road by false pretenses and with operating a confidence game.

The name of Ewing was thus brought into the case, as far as the public is concerned, for the first time. These warrants are merely the fore-runners of hosts of such writs that will be taken out. President J. T. Harahan himself swore to the charges. An attaché of the road said:

"We will get the last man in this conspiracy, down to the fellows that drove the spikes in the roadbed, if there be any such 'that had guilty knowledge of the scheme.'"

The same man announced that some idea might be conveyed to the public of the strength of the criminal cases that have been worked up against the alleged offenders by reason of the fact that the road this week refused an offer of $700,000 in return for which the complaints were to be dropped and no public exposure of the alleged culprits made.

"The mass of evidence against these men and the others who would be arrested later is so great it demonstrates that political graft in its palmy conditions pales into insignificance beside the hoodwinking of the executives of the great railroads by designing underlings," said a man who has been identified with the investigation. "I predict that the other roads will wake up and investigate, and that there will be sensation after sensation before the subject of 'railroad graft' becomes a dead issue."

Slain in Feud Battle.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 20.—As the outcome of a family feud between the Brockman and Patterson families in Catoosa county, Georgia, one of the Pattersons was shot dead by John Brockman. A bystander named Teems was dangerously wounded. The murderer escaped.

At Least They Are So Regarded at Beverly.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 20.—From indications now it appears doubtful if the administration advisers can much longer refrain from some expression as to the break between Taft and Roosevelt. So far the executive offices have refused absolutely to discuss the reported break and the president has had nothing to say. It is known, however, that in some quarters the reports from Oyster Bay are regarded as a trifle overdrawn. It is said that if there has been any break the colonel has made it, not because he has decided to oppose the president, but because he is opposed to Vice President Sherman and other New York leaders.

The fact that Mr. Sherman, Timothy L. Woodruff, William Barnes, Jr., and others who aligned themselves against Mr. Roosevelt at the meeting of the Republican committee after seeing the president, is understood to show that the colonel is fighting them in New York affairs, and that is all. If the colonel got the idea that the president sided in with these leaders against him, Beverly does not believe he will keep that idea long.

Lloyd C. Griscom, president of the New York county committee, is coming to Beverly in the near future. Collector William Loeb, Jr., may be a guest shortly, and Representative Longworth, who is at Oyster Bay today, may come back to Beverly next week.

The president it is known has consulted or will consult within a short time with other men who are close to him and to Colonel Roosevelt. In the meantime he is saying nothing, but it would not surprise politicians if a plain statement from the former president explaining his attitude in his own language were forthcoming.

Too Quick on the Trigger.

Granite City, Ill., Aug. 20.—Deputy Sheriff Fred Reiske shot and killed Samuel Morgan, whom he had arrested by mistake in an attempt to quell a disturbance at the close of a picnic at Horse Shoe lake, near here. The picnickers attempted to lynch Reiske, but he broke away and disappeared.

MR. TAFT LOOKED UP OTHER TAFTS

Interesting Family Reunion Held at Mendon.

INSPECTED THE FAMILY TREE

A Trip Around the Region Where the Original Robert Taft Settled Revealed Many Tafts and Brought Out the Story of a Whole Troop of Family Ghosts, Besides Disclosing Some Unexpected Relationships.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 20.—President Taft went back to the home of his ancestors yesterday. Robert Taft, the first of the family to settle in America, did most of his traveling by foot, but the president motored around on his visiting trip to the other Tafts in one of the White House cars. Governor Draper of Massachusetts, Secretary Norton and Captain A. W. Butt went with him from the governor's home near Peepdale, where they had been overnight guests. In addition to finding lots of big and little Tafts and talking with them, the president learned from Marcus Aldrich, a resident of Mendon, where Robert Taft, the first, settled, that he and the senator from Rhode Island are related. Secretary Norton discovered that he was kin with the president through Roger Williams, and Governor Draper, not to be left out of the union, got the historian to show that he was a distant connection of the president and Senator Aldrich both. These ties were figured out through George M. Aldrich, who settled near Mendon in 1668. The Tafts and the Aldriches and the rest intermarried.

The president met probably fifty Tafts. One was only two weeks old and another boasted of more than seventy years. The baby was named by the president. He called it Robert after his eldest son. The baby belongs to Clarence Taft of Mendon, a twentieth cousin of the president. "It's a boy, I suppose," said the president to the mother when she carried the baby out to where he was standing, shaking hands with relatives. "Then I'll name him Robert. I hope he will be a comfort to his mother." When a red-haired Taft of ten years came up to be introduced, the president remarked, "Well, we've got some red-headed ones in the family."

Near Uxbridge he stopped at an inn where S. Taft used to run for the travelers back in 1776. They showed him a sign with S. Taft's name, the year 1776 and an American eagle all depicted on it in faded characters. Miss Sarah Taft, who lives there now, showed the president the room where General George Washington slept. There was the usual four-post bed with a canopy which had not been disturbed since Washington's time. Miss Sarah Taft told the president the inn ghost story, which had in it a whole series of ghosts, all passing by the tavern in a funeral procession. Several of her ancestors saw the funeral cortege one day, but on investigation could not find that anyone in the neighborhood had died. They decided it was a ghost procession.

As the president's ancestry was traced, Robert came first of those in America, and then followed Joseph, Peter, Aaron, Peter, Rosson and Alphonso. Robert Taft's home was built in 1680. He had six tall sons who helped him build a bridge across an adjacent stream, and the townspeople gave them a big farm. The president got back to Beverly without incident at 6 o'clock last night.

THE COLONEL'S MOTTO

"All Men Up, and Not Some Men Down," He Tells Negroes.

New York, Aug. 20.—Colonel Roosevelt addressed the National Negro Business Men's League in session here, telling the delegates that "All men up and not some men down" should be the motto of good Americans.

As he finished there were yells demanding Roosevelt in 1912. Booker Washington could not stop them. Bishop Dunstan did not try to. He thanked the colonel and told him right to his face that if he ever desired any further promotion, as if that were possible, all the colonel would have to do would be to look toward the colored race. And everybody sang "America."

Later the colonel was closeted in his office with John F. Hill, chairman of the Republican national committee. He would say nothing of the conference. They merely discussed politics. Mr. Hill slipped out by the side door and nobody saw him.

10,723 Deaths in Week.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—One week's cholera record for Russia shows 23,944 new cases of cholera and 10,723 deaths, bringing the total number of cases in Russia this year to 112,985. Of these 50,287 have died, the mortality percentage being 44.5.

Browne Jury Completed.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The jury which is to try Lee O'Neil Browne on the charge of bribery in connection with the election of United States Senator Lorimer, was completed late yesterday afternoon and court adjourned until next Monday.

HAVE YOU DESIRE FOR A COLISEUM?

have by that time had a year's experience on the platform, will stand as high as any reader in the American Lyceum, for beyond a preadventure of a doubt, Mr. Pugh has exceptional ability. Music of a high quality could be rendered in a very acceptable and extremely pleasing manner by the many vocalists and pianists in this city and county. The talent in every line imaginable that can be found in this county would fill a cornucopia. This ends the third act of our dream.

The fourth division carries us away from the chautauqua but brings us to the church. If the ministerial association of this city could agree that religion is the property of all humanity and that the ultimate subject of all religious institutions is the same, and could agree to have a union revival meeting in the tabernacle—for that is what the coliseum would be then—with some mighty power as "Line" McConnell acting as leader, winning souls and letting them individually choose which church they desired to join, and waking sleeping individuals who are already members of a church; let this power come on a percent of the money raised by collections and the balance to go to the tabernacle building fund. Thus a double good would be accomplished.

Upon awakening the city park under the superintendency of an expert landscape gardener is seen—but that vision is lost and must be taken until the next sleep.

The dream has been narrated and it is one that can be put into realization. The realization of that dream executed would pay for the coliseum. Forget self and think of general good for the community. Realize that if the dream is accomplished that great educational, religious, healthful, restful and entertaining institution the Rush county chautauqua is firmly established. Realize that the church will have a place for union meetings in which to participate; political parties will have a place for a nominating convention; the city and county will have a coliseum. Adopt the motto of the sage and philosopher, "Now or Never."

Mrs. Nannie H. Ross, who has been nursing Miss Emma K. Jones, west of the city, was called to her sister's, Mrs. Margaret E. English, who was very sick, but is now better.

On account of the Lebanon Association being in session at Fortville at this time and the ministers wishing to attend, there will be no services at the Morgan Street Primitive Baptist church this week.

Word was received yesterday by Fon Riggs from his wife, who is at Martinsville, that all of the Rush county people at the watering resort were making plans to hear the concert given by Carl Morris at that place last night.

AGE LIMIT TO AUTO DRIVERSShelbyville City Council Passes an Ordinance to That Effect.

After discussing the subject for an hour or more the city council, in special session Thursday night passed an ordinance making it unlawful for any person under the age of eighteen years to drive an automobile on any of the streets or alleys of this city, says the Shelbyville Republican. The ordinance is imperative because of several accidents that have occurred in the city, the last one being that in which Miss Mary Tomlinson, an inexperienced driver of Fairland, figured. Johnny Mack, Jr., was the victim. His condition is still serious and he may not recover.

Rushville fast horses were in evidence all over the country yesterday and they did not fail to get in the money. Bruce Graham drove Jerome, the horse owned by him and John K. Cowdy, to second place in the 2:24 trot at Greensburg yesterday. He finished first in the last two heats of the race.

Frank Lindsay finished second in both heats of the 2:18 pace at Muncie yesterday with Lady J. The time of the best heat was 2:18 1/4, while the other one was 2:21 1/4.

Aileen Wilson, the Rush county mare finished third in both heats of the free-for-all pace at the Grand circuit meeting at Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday. She has failed to "come back" this year and has not yet won a race.

Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C, the full brother and sister in whom there is much local interest, due to the fact that they were wintered and shown here on several occasions, performed to the pole at the Peoria, Ill., race meeting yesterday, negotiating the distance in 2:14 3/4. They would have made record time, had they not broken in the stretch, as they went the first half in one minute flat.

AWARD BRIDGE CONTRACTSCounty Commissioners Held Session in Court House Today.

The county commissioners were in session today to award two different contracts for bridge work over the county. The proposal of Franklin D.
